Zachary (a/k/a “Chuey” to his friends and colleagues) is an associate with Saretsky Hart Michaels + Gould PC.

He comes to SHMG with a background in real estate and contract law, having honed his litigation skills in courtrooms throughout the State of Michigan. He currently focuses his practice in the financial services industry, handling all aspects of FINRA matters including customer disputes, promissory note collection, expungements and regulatory inquiries.

While in law school at Wayne State University, Zachary was a published writer in the distinguished Wayne Law Review. He is passionate about research and writing. Prior to law school, Zachary worked in commercial real estate and for Michigan’s then Senior Senator, Carl Levin.

Outside of work, Zachary enjoys rock climbing, pub trivia and playing the guitar.
